

High Impact Leadership Seminar

“If there’s one thing I have learned it is that you can’t grow a team without growing as individuals. HILS plays an important role with this.”

J. Grover Thomas, Jr., Chairman, Trustmark Insurance Company

The High Impact Leadership Seminar (HILS) is a self-awareness based leadership program that enables individuals to create a powerful developmental road map employing pragmatic tools that can dramatically enhance organizational impact and accountability.

“Each person on our team returned with renewed insight and inspiration. HILS has improved communications, developed stronger relationships in the workplace and helped us to retain key leadership positions.”

Who Should Attend

Each HILS group draws CEOs, senior executives, directors and managers from different organizations, industries and nationalities. This kind of diversity in a small group setting of 8-10 participants helps to create a rich and supportive learning environment. Many organizations send their entire leadership team through the program, one person at a time, to help create a dynamic and learning organization.

Core Focus: Growing from the Inside Out

The best leaders are those who consistently strive to increase their emotional intelligence and leadership impact. They inspire and influence others across organizational boundaries in order to succeed in today’s rapidly changing, performance-oriented culture. HILS helps executives understand the underlying dynamics of their behavior, which in turn frees them up to make lasting changes in areas most important to them, both professionally and personally.

Awareness. Action. Accountability.

HILS provides each executive the opportunity to deeply explore the internal and external reality of his or her leadership strengths and weaknesses. The participants discover thought and behavior patterns that enhance and/or block maximum performance and peak experience as a leader.

“We have found that this program is an integral part in opening up the dialogue among team members and building higher levels of trust.”

Robert W. Borlik
Senior Vice President and Chief Information Officer
Supervalu, Inc.

The intensive feedback process utilizes diagnostic and leadership inventories, as well as small group interaction. Proven, yet non-traditional techniques are used to generate deepened self-awareness and insights that prepare the leader for the action planning phase of the seminar.

Each executive develops a comprehensive action plan to drive his or her future vision into the “now,” with an emphasis on behaviors that produce effective results. Included in this plan are values, goals, a personal purpose in life, leadership commitments and a specific approach to work/life balance questions.

“The individual awareness and development tools HILS provides are enormously effective at promoting the personal responsibility and accountability so critical to excellence.”

Mark Gamble
SVP/Head of Global Establishment Services/Japan, Asia-Pacific, Australia

Executives leave with a renewed sense of clarity and personal responsibility for their individual performance, as well as for their teams. This deeper understanding of their true sphere of influence supports, aligns and helps drive change within organizations.
